

Learning foundations

Retrieval practice is recalling information from memory without looking at notes.

Feedback is information that helps a learner correct an error in understanding.

Spacing is distributing study sessions over time rather than studying all at once.